At the beginning of the 1900s, Eduardo Scarpetta, neapolitan actor and playwright, has become the most successful Italian comedian of his times, all his plays are a box office hit, theater is his kingdom.

The great Toni Servillo portrays Scarpetta's extraordinary talent and charisma, diving into his unconventional family relationships and depicting the rise and fall of a unique character, from the creation of his timeless classics theatre plays to the memorable trial with the magniloquent poet Gabriele D'Annunzio.
