WATCH THE TRAILER

What would happen if the heart of a violent camorra hitman would be transplanted into the chest of a dorky professor? Would this defenseless man turn immediately into a cruel criminal like his donor was? Science tells us that these are silly and ancient beliefs. But what if instead the killer's ruthless mother, was convinced that her son was still alive within the heart now beating inside the professor's chest and would ask him to seek revenge for his son?
